Founded in Houston in 1998, Osha Liang LLP is a full-service intellectual property law firm with a global presence. With offices in Texas, California, France, and Japan, the firm specializes in protecting and enforcing intellectual property interests on a world-wide basis.

Osha Liang's expertise spans the gamut from international patent and trademark procurement to litigation and strategic IP counseling. The firm is frequently recognized as a leading IP firm, and has been included in IP Today magazine's list of top 50 IP firms in the U.S. (based on the number of issued utility patents) for the past four years.

Through strictly organic growth, the firm has increased in size from the original team of 13 members in 1998 to more than 120 employees today. Osha Liang is proud to be one of the largest IP boutiques in the Gulf Coast region. The firm has twice been named to The Houston Business Journal's "Fast 100" list of fastest growing companies.

One of the many forward-looking aspects of the firm's practice is the Patent Agent program. Osha Liang recruits science and engineering graduates from universities and industry who are then apprenticed in patent practice through on-the-job training and weekly lectures. Eventually, Patent Engineers are encouraged to sit for the United States Patent and Trademark Office registration exam to become licensed Patent Agents. Patent Agents then have the option to attend law school with tuition assistance provided by the firm. ■
